

RADNEXT is an EU-funded project, coordinated by CERN, and involving a very broad range of facilities, research centres and companies with the joint purpose of enhancing accessibility to irradiation facilities for electronics testing across Europe. During this talk, the RADNEXT research objectives will be outlined and the irradiation opportunities will be presented, the latter being of special interest for possible future RADNEXT beam time users in the RADOPT community.